Disciplinary Policy for a Junior Golfer

Hopefully, there will never be any need to discipline a junior. However, if the need does arise and depending on the nature of the misbehavior, you could receive an informal warning, or a written warning.

In serious cases you could be required to attend a disciplinary hearing. If this happened, you would be informed of the date and time and you and your parents would have to attend.

If you were found to be at fault you could either receive a formal written warning or in more serious cases you could be banned from training or playing for the County for a period of time. In extreme cases you will not be allowed to represent your County again.

The warning would be given by the County Junior Organiser and County Captain and County Professional.

Any hearings would be with the Junior Committee, the County Captain and County Welfare Officer.
